

Applus+ Opens New Office in the Municipality of Brockton, Ontario, Canada

EDMONTON, 18th November, 2019. Applus+, a global testing, inspection and certification company, will be inaugurating its new facility located in the Municipality of Brockton, located in Ontario, Canada this November 28th, 2019.

The Energy & Industry Division of Applus+ has been exploring operations in the nuclear sector since 2016. In order to meet the industry's demands for quality testing and inspection services, Applus+ has positioned its operations in the Municipality of Brockton in order to support the ongoing safe and reliable operations of the nearby nuclear power generation facility.

Applus+ Energy & Industry Division Canada's Eastern Regional Director, Paul Galloway recently commented on the company's development in the region, "As we seek to grow and diversify our operations in Eastern Canada, strategically positioning an office in the Municipality of Brockton was a logical choice. Located near the country's first private nuclear generator and in a town recognized for its local commitment from employees and employers to provide quality products and services that sustain the local economy, we are pleased to join the Brockton community and look forward to further development as we grow together."

Applus+ will be inaugurating the opening of its new office in Brockton, on November 28th from 1pm. The event will kick off with opening remarks at around 1:30pm followed by a ribbon cutting ceremony at around 2pm. We welcome our business partners and members of the local community to visit our facility. We will be demonstrating non-destructive testing and inspection technologies including RTD IWEX, our proprietary and advanced ultrasonic imaging technology; SCAR Radiography, Rope Access enabled inspection, and Heat Treatment solutions. A career-oriented networking session will also take place, for those who seek to learn more about a career in the testing and inspection field.
